

You can receive extra support while you study!

Do you find it difficult to concentrate, do you have problems reading or writing, or is there anything else that makes you hesitate about studying? If so, you could qualify for individual pedagogical support for education (IPSU).

IPSU can provide you with the support you need to succeed with your studies.

Here are some examples of the help you can receive:

- We work together with you to identify what you need in order to succeed
- Computers, dictaphones, apps or anything else that could aid you in your studies
- Practice study techniques and strategies before you begin your course
- Pedagogical support during your studies
- We give your teachers training to help them provide you with the best conditions

Does this sound interesting?

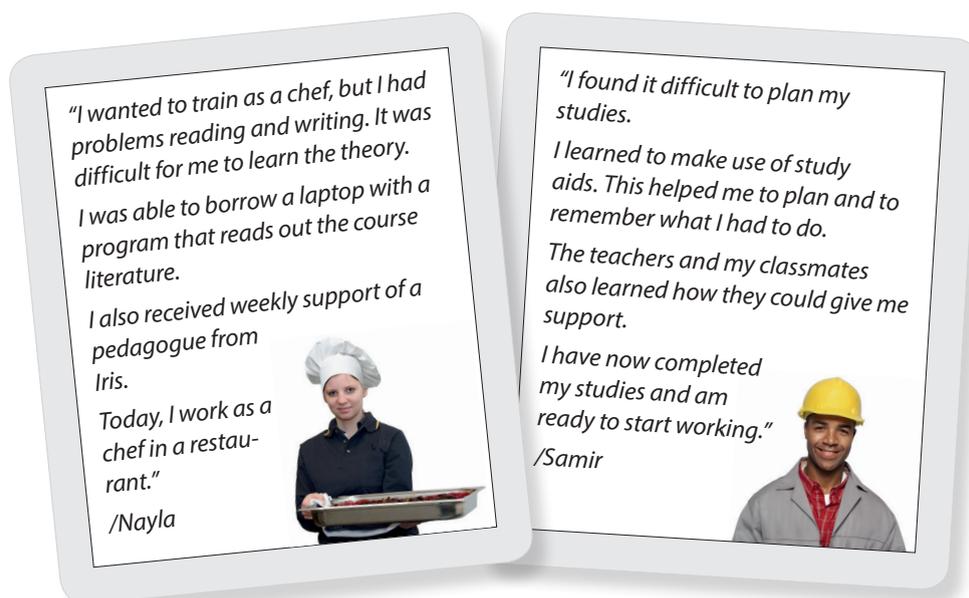

If so, you should talk to your coordinator at Arbetsförmedlingen.

Ask about IPSU.

Information

If you would like more information about IPSU, visit our website: www.iris.se/IPSU

IPSU opened the path to work

www.iris.se

Iris has been helping people to move from exclusion to self-sufficiency for more than a hundred years. Today, Iris continues to work to make the labour market accessible by providing function-strengthening initiatives, integration and matching. Iris is part of the Iris Group, which is one of Sweden's leading agents for effective training and support initiatives for adults with the aim of achieving self-sufficiency. The Iris Group consists of Iris, Medlearn and Competens.